In a more complex and fragmented market, segmentation continues to be relevant and critical.

Research has shown that culturally-driven strategies targeted to the appropriate segments create more meaningful engagement which leads to increased ROI.

Using specialists that have the expertise to leverage cultural insights to ensure campaigns resonate, engage and spur action among multicultural audiences is the gold standard for marketing.

In a world where specialists are celebrated in every aspect of our lives, it’s time to reclaim this value to the thousands of marketing professionals with cultural expertise.

We are rebranding as the Culture Marketing Council – The Voice of Hispanic Marketing.
our vision to elevate the quality and effectiveness of U.S. marketing by harnessing the power of cultural expertise and impact to drive business results

our objective to infuse cultural inspiration and innovation to every marketing campaign in the U.S. via Expertise and Cultural Fluency
our strategic priorities

• Be thought leaders

• Educate the industry

• Expand and retain a diverse membership base

• Be insights driven and fact based

• Support the education and development of our industry members

CMC in 2018

• Launch of a major CMC original research study on digital lives with a members-only launch event in NYC in early April

• Be ready to submit your nominations for the Rising Star and Hispanic Advertising Planning Excellence (HAPE) awards. Nominations open in mid February

• Watch for the CMC Media Guide – expanded charts and narrative. Make sure you’ve updated your directory listing

• CMC annual conference – June 4-6 in Los Angeles – registration to open in late February
The new American mainstream, which is fueled by multicultural ethnicities and led by the dynamic state of the Hispanic consumer, is constantly evolving, but the three keys to ensure campaigns resonate and connect meaningfully with audiences remain the same: Creativity, Community & CULTURE.

CMC’s June conference will be at the C3 intersection
